The early part of the afternoon was spent in sewing and chatting. Later an interesting guessing contest took place. Mrs. W. L. Stiles and Mrs. Williams drew for the prize and Mrs. Stiles proved the lucky winner. Mrs. M. E. Broderick received the consolation.

Mrs. W. C. Rawson gave a selection on the guitar accompanied by Mrs. Cooper on the piano. She responded to an encore. Mrs. Cooper sang a solo and gave a selection on the piano. Mrs. Cooper and Mrs. Stiles sang a duet.

Three cheers for our side! Two more victories added to our already long list. Friday night the "Bull Dogs" defeated Clifton. The score was 49 to 19. Saturday night Morenci suffered; the score ending with 33 to 22. The lineup was as follows:

Forwards, Marvin, Clifford, Farrell, Evans; center, Robert Graham; guards, Marvin Welker, Robert Sales, Bennett Yett subbed for Farrell in the second half at Clifton, and Gordon Graham for Robert Sales at Morenci.

Our team is certainly living up to our highest expectations. We think the successive victories are largely due to their splendid team work which has greatly improved since the beginning of the school year.

"Oh what a week!" is the general exclamation heard about the school. Tests, tests and then some more tests, of course I'm speaking of the mid-year exams, which we have all just survived. And just to start us off well they gave us one of those nice little exciting mental tests to determine our 'normality'. We were requested to work a few simple arithmetic examples, correct a few sentences and a good many other little things, all very simple in themselves but, when a person was about half scared to death, worrying whether any one was going to discover him subnormal, he was apt to put down that nought and seven make eight and that Alfred Noyes was a blacksmith or that potatoes as a general rule were measured by the gram. Any one entertaining a high opinion of his mental powers certainly had it decreased a notch or two. Any way, I think it made everyone study harder for the big finals that followed and speaking of cramming! Well, that's what everyone did—trying to memorize a U. S. history in one evening or master the Gregg Shorthand system in an hour or learn to distinguish bromine, chlorine and iodine from each other in five minutes, not really absorbing anything and forgetting everything he did know in the confusion and haste.

Oh it was nerve racking; however, the students weren't the only ones that suffered because the faculty, besides being asked on the average of thirty-four questions by each student, had to grade all the papers. They are over now and we won't have to study any more until the next ones come in May. Oh, by the way, in an English theme one of our brilliant Seniors informed us of the extraordinary circumstances that "Robert Burns was the son of a pheasant." We all agreed that he was "some bird." However, this was a mere slip in the spelling and isn't so bad when you think of the number of people who think of Robert Burns only as a manufacturer of cigars.

Onward, Student Soldiers
We are just finishing the first skirmish of our annual hand to hand battle with learning. Which side is victorious that of the pupils or that of the studies? The first half of the battle seemingly has been so quickly passed through that we scarcely know which side has won.

Our enemy is strong and is well armed with guns shooting easily forgotten history dates and chemistry formulas, and horrible irregular verb bombs that are set to burst in examination weeks after being planted. Wentworth uses the most impossible language vocabularies and algebra axioms for passwords into his camps. One of his most deadly methods of attack is that of hiding in ambush of apparent defeat until he finds us hopelessly unprepared to meet him.

In spite of all these treacherous weapons we can master the foe. We have only to carry the orders of our officers, the teachers, in order to conquer learning and make him our slave, in the good old Roman fashion. If we arm ourselves in accordance with our officers' commands, we can easily win the daily battle.

We can make useless the guns that shoot easily forgotten history dates and chemistry formulas by soaking the shells in a little memory fluid. We are able to protect ourselves from irregular verb bombs by safety jackets made from ability to conjugate the aforesaid verbs, while, by learning the pass word each day, we can go into the enemy's country and get a deal of valuable information.

It is not difficult to prepare ourselves thus for the great "Battle for a Diploma." In fact, if we win the daily battles we shall be so strengthened that we shall be able to defeat the enemy with scarcely an effort.

Why should we be so anxious to win over this enemy? A queer thing about learning is that, when he is once defeated and made our slave, he becomes our dearest friend, who can and will do almost anything for us. Such a friend is certainly worth working and fighting for. This is what we are going to do in the next semester of school.

Worth Considering

The question is not so much how you contract a cold, but how to get rid of it with the least loss of time and inconvenience. If you will consider the experience of others under similar circumstances, who have been most successful in checking their colds, in their beginning, you will secure a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay, and use it faithfully. There are many families who have used this preparation successfully for years and hold it in high esteem. It is excellent.

DENTISTRY

Dr. M. E. Brenner, Surgeon Dentist and Pyorrhea Specialist is located in Safford after 15 years absence. He will be glad to have his old patients call on him. He still has his old prices which are decidedly pre-war prices.

Constipation

Constipation of the bowels is a stoppage of the sewerage system that removes waste matter from the body. It is as necessary that your bowels move regularly once each day, to carry off this waste, as it is that the waste pipes of your home be kept open and carry off the waste from the house. If you would enjoy good health, keep your bowels regular by taking Chamberlain's Tablets when needed.
